SELF DEFENCE ON THE STREETS!

1 Bully picks on you 'cause you're wearing pyjamas. He attacks you with gun, rifle, sword, axe, knife, fork and spoon.

2 You get out your concealed martial-arts weapon (authentic Japanese 'Broo-m stick', available from G.B.H. Kung-fu supplies).

3 You adopt 'Wishi-washi' defence position, ready to swing at attacker.

4 Bully is doubled-up with laughter, so you miss him and hit yourself on the head instead.

5 Bully dies laughing at you. You are saved from his assault.

6 Unfortunately, it is against the law to leave dead bullies lying around. You are under arrest.

'Knuckle-Crusher' Quits!

By Handy Carpenter

KNUCKLECRUSHER... revealed

BOXER "Knucklecrusher" Smith has quit boxing after 5 years at the top of the profession (and 15 at the bottom). "Knucklecrusher", who gained his nickname through his ability to break opponents' fists with his nose, has been forced to retire at the age of 78 due to constant back trouble. Every time I fight, I fall flat on my back," said the famous boxer of the World Lite-Middle-weight Wrestling Championship.

STRUGGLING and desperate 4th Division Hollywood Advertiser Frank Rodgers-Bodgers, looking forward to hitting the big time. "I just hope that professional soccer is as easy as the table football I've been playing so far," he said yesterday.

RYAN BOBSON IS UFO ALIEN!

Sacked player's astonishing claim!

by DICK DESPERATE

RYAN BOBSON... Good old-ball runner or hideous glass monster? (Artist's impression)

MALCHESTER UNITED striker Ryan Bobson was named last night as the bizarre being from another planet at the centre of the decline of English football.

Derek Loon, a former reserve player with United, has revealed Bobson's extra-terrestrial secret exclusively to the 'Bumb'. Loon claims that he was amused when he began to discover the truth about Bobson.

"I became close friends with Ryan during my two days at Malchester," said Loon, "and it was at this time that he admitted that he was a disgraced Wingle-beast from the planet Voltroon, sent here to use his hypnotic powers to make our footballers play badly, and often us up for invasion by the Voltroonians. First Eleven Death Squad. He later tried to dissuade this as a joke, but when I came suspicious of the number of long-distance phone calls he was making to someone called 'YORGO THE MERCILESS', he had me removed from the team."

When we put Loon's claims to Bobson, he dismissed them as nonsense. "That skiving wally got sacked because he wasn't interested in football," blasted the angry outfield dynamo. "He spent all his time trying to sell me up stories to stupid reporters."

I telephoned Loon to put this accusation to him. "Naturally, Ryan would say that - mainly because it's true," he said from the secret address he's gone to in order to spend the money I gave him for this story.

why not try for that elusive "big 49" with.... the-frank windy sidebottom
 vs
elton john
 all-star cut-out snooker game hello fans... frank here! now... i get loads of letters asking me... "who's the best at snooker between you and elton john?"
 well... because we're both
 big, busy, show-biz
 men... we've
 not had time to have a game yet!
 but with my cut-out game
 you can play us yourself.

you can even create
 your own player by cutting up magazine
 or even your own photo

setting up*
 Stick figures, balls and snooker baile onto thick card and cut out. then place the balls onto the marked spots... i.e. red = red etc... you will also need a dice... but the rules and scoring are the same as real snooker... (ask dad)

before a player takes his shot... they must say
 * the type of shot (e.g. left)
 * and the direction of shot... i.e. ...

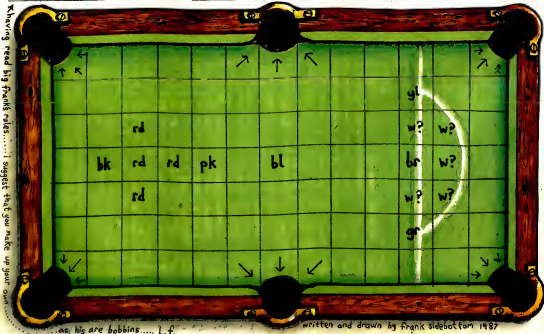

types of shot
 Soft = 1 throw of the dice
 Medium = 2 throws of the dice
 Hard = 3 throws of the dice

direction
 should your (or any) ball hit a cushion head on... it continues back the same way.
 if the ball hits the cushion
 at an angle... then it continues at the opposite angle... (ask dad)

if the white ball strikes another ball... then you must find the two new directions that both balls will now take... so roll the dice
 * 1 or 2 will send the hit ball left
 * 3 or 4 will send the hit ball right
 * 5 or 6 will send the hit ball forward
 * 1 or 2 will send the hit ball left
 * 3 or 4 will send the hit ball right
 * 5 or 6 will send the hit ball forward

...but leave the white ball stationary on the square the hit ball was on. (a star shot)
 * 6 also sends the hit ball forward... but this time the white bounces back in the direction that it came from (a star back)
 * 2 and 3 throw the dice again to see how far both balls now travel... (and if the original shot was hard... then roll 3 times 24)
 * should either of these two balls hit another ball... then it will remain on the collision square and the new ball will be pushed onto the next square (and so on...)

if it is not possible to hit a ball... then play and declare an impossible rule... but then just next time the next number to reach it... if you don't... foul shot... and white stays put

...as big as bobbins.... L.F.

These are all trick questions, as none of the above situations could happen in professional football. Space aliens and tigers are banned from most grounds under new members-only rules. New techniques such as plastic gloves, underground heating and good pitch-drainage help prevent earthquakes, erosion, and as for questions (c) and (d) - well, highly-paid and much-coveted sporting gentlemen would never shout abuse and right, would 11 Aliens from outer space land on the pitch just as a free kick is about to be taken. Do you (a) book this allows for obstruction, (b) send them off the ground or (c) just let it pass?

2 A small earthquake swallows the home team's defenders, allowing their opponents to score. Do you (a) award play on no infringement of the rules has occurred, (b) call a two-minute half-time in the ground where it is the home or (c) run like mad and hide?

3 A player abuses you, calling you a short-sighted old twit. Do you (a) award him a free kick up the backside, (b) throw the book at him - making sure it's a very heavy one or (c) wonder where all the noise is coming from?

4 An escaped tiger walks one of the goalkeepers. Do you (a) let the substitution on - the tiger might want dessert, (b) play on with a team of eleven, and hope it doesn't go down to 9 men, then, (c) try to ban the tiger off the pitch, and ask the lioness to send it home for a lock, or a head?

5 A fight breaks out between members of the home and away teams. Do you (a) send for United Nations peace-keeping forces, (b) disarm the two teams - then, if they keep fighting, do leg them as well, or (c) take cover?
